| Description | Industrial Oriented Mini-Project (IOMP) teaches students how to survive in the field. It is a group activity by students with the intention to work on a particular topic of their own interest which will give them an experience of problem-solving among the group members, by using skills, facilities available and under the guidance of a Supervisor. Mini Projects are implemented on various hardware kits with simulation on Arduino, IoT Raspberry-pi boards. So students will understand how to use the hardware boards and dump programs on hardware. Mini projects basically give them an idea to manage study hardware boards and how to manage them. Within a group, one may concentrate on working of various parts in the hardware kit, or all may work on each activity-related work, depending on the management of the work under the guidance of Supervisor and nature of the work. Mini-projects help students in different ways like the formation of groups, team management, improving communication skills, learning in-depth with minimum time, interaction with the Supervisor and outside companies, thinking about final year projects. |
